The Red Cross Entertainment.

One of the most enjoyable affairs, pulled off in Columbia, for many months, was the Red Cross Musical and literary entertainment given on the lawn at the home of Miss Vic Hughes last Wednesday evening. Nearly every family in Columbia was represented by two or more members, and the evening was most delightfully spent. The principal music was made by Miss Hughes' Victrola which was kept constantly going from 8 to 11 192 628 22 1 298 22 o'clock. The admission fee was 10 6 455 64 cents, and besides the money raised 101 920 23 at the gate, ice cream and salted peanuts were sold, and quite a bit of money was raised which will go to sweii the Red Cross fund. Red Cross Meeting at the Methodist Church.

On Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, a meeting will be held at the Methodist church for the completion of the Red Cross organization. The Secretary has received all necessary authority to complete the organization. A treasurer and assistant or vice chairman will be selected. The assistant chairman is to be a lady.

A board or executive committee consisting of 9 members is to be appointed consisting of 6 men and 3 ladies.

The American Red Cross is a patriotic and humane organization, and any citizen of the United States may become a member by paying $1 annual membership fee. Membership imposes no obligation of personal service either in time of war or peace. It is not to be confused with enrollment for special service. Comparatively few wiil ever be called on to serve in the field, but every one can serve at home by becoming a member and getting others to join. This chapter includes Columbia and Adair county, and any one may become a member of this chapter by sending their name and $1 to the secretary, Mrs. R. F. Rowe. Those paying $2 will receive the Red Cross Magazine. Then any amount may be given from $5 to $100. But being a member doesnot obligate any one to pay more than $1 per year. J. O. Russeil, Pres.

Obituary

Amanda Ellen Reece Fudge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Reece, was born March 6th, 1861. Was married to Otho Fudge Dec., 4th, 1880. To this union was born four children; Mr. Beach Fudge, Mrs. Amos Hurt, Mr. Curb Fudge and Miss Cordie Fudge.

Bro. and sister Fudge lived hadpily in their home near Breeding, Ky., with their family with and near them until Sept. 25th, 1916. Sister Fudge was taken ill, and in spite of all that could be done, she gradually grew worse and worse. She was taken a few months ago to Louisville for an operation by the advice of the family physician. Dr. Simpson, of Breeding, Ky. There she was informed by the doctor that they could not do her any good, so she returned home to die. So on June the 6th, 1917, in the presence of a weeping husband, children, relatives and friends, the grim monster death, Journal has quit taking whisky came into their home and carried addertisements.

the precious wife and darling mother away.

Sister Fudge professed faith in Christ at the age of about 15, and united with the Christian church. Her many friends say that she has lived a true, devoted Christian life all along the way. We are glad to say that we had the privilege of visiting her during her illness, and reading and praying with her. Although she suffered untold pain almost continually, we found her very pa-Columbia, - Kentucky tient, willing to live or willing to die. On leaving after prayer one afternoon, she reached out her feeble hand, and taking mine she said with tears in her eyes: Brother Chandler if it is the Lord's will I would like to get well and be with my family like I once was, but if not I am ready for the call, and if I never see you any more this side of the grave, I'll meet you in Glory.

We had to stop a moment for meditation and gaze upon the afflicted, fading form as she lay there rejoicing and praising God. But when we began to see what sister Fudge was soon to be the possessor of, we did not wonder at her rejoicing. A building not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. She leaves the broken hearted companion and the four children mentioned, also two brothers and one sister, Berry Reece, of Sherman, Texas, Logan Reece, of St. Louis, Mo., and Mrs. Burnie Janes, of Nell,

We extend our sympathy to the bereaved, but we are sure that our loss is her gain in the sweet beyond. She is missed as a wife, mother, sister and neighbor. She was so kind and nice, and always tried to make people James Menzies happy, especially young people. We all mourn her loss, but she has crossed the dark valley, but not alone, for Christ, the good shepherd accompanied her across. Let us not weep, although we can't call her back, but we can go to her, and live and dwell forever in the home prepared for those who love the Lord.

After song and prayer service conducted in the home by Bro. John Reece, the remains were carried to the family graveyard. where Bro. Dock Janes and the writer both gave a talk of about 15 or 20 minutes oach. Then she was laid in the tomb to await the great judgment morning. How sad and lonely was the hour when we turned away to leave her there, never to see the smiling face, or clasp hands in this life, but with all hope of meeting her in Glory with the redeemed and blood washed. where there is no death nor farewells. Let us strive to meet her.

Mrs. F. M. Jones, of Palmer, Okla., writes: "From the time I entered into womanhood . . I looked with dread from one month to the next. Spare the Corn Roots.

In a four-year experiment at the Virginia Experiment Station corn cultivated three times made three pecks more to the acre than corn cultivated five times. Corn kept free from weeds with the least possible stiring of the soil made ten bushels less to the acre than the corn cultivated three times. In a series of experiments running over several years and covering every part of the country where corn is extensively grown, the killing of the weeds without cultivation has has given practically the same results as thorough cultivation. Only in the South and the drier parts of the West has cultivation given better results than simple weed-killing. Some farmers might conclude from this that they can afford to leave their corn fields uncultivated, or that they can quit cultivating very early. Either conclusion would be risky. Small yields result whenever weeds are allowed | not advertised but will sell. to grow. The largest yields have come from fields cultivated more than the usual number of times. Late cultivation of corn may pay. It will pay only when the early cultivation has been frequent very shallow.

It is beyond question that many farmers reduce their yields of corn by the last one or two workings they give it. The value of corn roots is not yet appreciated. Any cultivation that destroys many roots is likely to do harm rather than good. Kill the weeds in the corn field and spare the roots of the corn.—Southern Agriculturist.

Wallon's Great Problem.

Washington, July 5.—Officials, who for obvious reasons, cannot be quoted, declared to-day that if the Government's activitles against German spies in the United States could be published, the news would startle-the

While not admitting they are convlnced that the spy system was enthrely responsible for the enmassed submarine attack on the transport of Gen. Pershing's expedition, it was sald that the combined forces of the State, War, Navy and Justice departments were working in cohesion, and systematically unearthing information of an amazing character, and of great value to the Government

It was pointed out that even with the strictest censorship of mails, cables and press, our alles have not been abie to meet the situation to their complete satisfaction. The problem is of far 'greater magnitude in this country with thousands of aliens, an immense border and countless possible means of outside communication.

It was pointed out to-day that although the allies have never maintained spy systems as far-reaching, or effective as Germany, even that country, despite her registration of Individuals, her comparatively small border line and her network of secret police, has been unable to prevent information of her military moves from reaching the outside world.

Germany's realization of that is shown in her absolute suppression of aii maii and cable communications for a considerable period preceding any important military movement.

Now is a Good Time to Plant Blackeyed Peas in Corn.—Within a few days most corn will be laid by. It would be an excellent plan to drill a row of peas between the corn rows. If sown now tney will mature about corn cutting time. They can then be picked and stored for winter.

If desired for hay, It is not a difficult matter to puil the vines by hand or cut them with a corn knife about the time the earliest pods are full grown. This plan would help provide means of making many an oid cow smile on winter evenings when otherwise she might weep, and it certainly is a quicker way to gather fodder and better fodder than pulling the fodder

If the peas are not desired in any of the above ways, hogs can be turned into the corn field when the peas begin getting ripe and thereby be enabled to take on a good many 15-cent pounds without injuring the corn.

Of course the ordinary speckled cow peas can be substituted for the blackeyed type, but most people prefer the blackeyed pea or the 'crowder' when they are to be used for the table. M. H. Judd,
